(54) HEALTH INFORMATION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

(57)Abstract:

PROBLEM TO BE SOLVED: To provide a health information management system in which surrounding persons easily get to know the previous history and the prescribing situation of a sick person (injured person) and emergency measure at the site of first aid for life saving.

SOLUTION: When a member feels abnormality of his/her physical condition during going out and calls an emergency department, a mail for giving information of abnormality is transmitted from a cellular phone set to a server 1 together with calling the emergency department by the software of the cellular phone set downloaded in advance. A center KS receives the mail and calls back automatically. Further, the server 1 displays the profile of the member stored in a health information database 2. The operator (a licensed medical worker, basically) of the center KS confirms the abnormality of the member with his/her live speech, generally determines measures required until the arrival of an ambulance due to calling the emergency department by general determination based on the displayed member profile and the live speech of the member, and gives information of the measures via the cellular phone set (a speech, an image mail, or the like).
